My interest in history and historic preservation was actually sparked by my obsession with the study of family history. For the past 15 years I have been traveling “back in time” throughout California and extensively in the midwest, the east and our southern states. I have learned how important a knowledge of the history of an area is to understanding the people of past generations.

As I began collecting family photos and other personal effects of my ancestors, I realized how little we have of our past and the importance of carefully preserving what we do have for future generations. I am actively involved in the preservation of photos of people, both those of my ancestors and those of others who lived in their communities.

A fourth generation Californian, I have lived in Aptos for over 20 years. My interest in the history of Santa Cruz County began with my involvement in the community of Valencla and its remaining structures. Although currently spending most of my time with the process of preserving the Valencia Hall and Valencia Post Office structures, I am trying to increase my knowledge of the history of the mid-county area through its photographs and other artifacts. I am also involved in the planning stages of the development of a living history project to be an integral part of our Valencia Post Office and General Store Museum.

I am interested in serving on the Historic Resources Commission because I am committed to the importance of preserving our local history and those historic structures remaining. I believe my work with the Valencia Hall and Post Office project has given me the framework in which to serve the County of Santa Cruz in this important area.
